154 So.2d 637 (1963) STATE of Florida, Appellant, v. Florio ROSA, Appellee. No. 61-731. District Court of Appeal of Florida. Third District. February 20, 1963. Rehearing Denied March 18, 1963. *638 James P. Wallace, Jr., State's Atty., and Stephen W. Clarke, Asst. State's Atty., for appellant. Before BARKDULL, C.J., and HENDRY and TILLMAN PEARSON, JJ. HENDRY, Judge. The state appeals from an order of the trial court excluding certain testimony of a police officer, on the ground that it was properly excluded as res inter alios acta. The question raised on this appeal is whether or not the self-serving testimony of the defendant is to be admitted into evidence over a timely objection to the admissibility of such testimony. The record shows that one of the arresting officers was allowed to testify over objection as to what the defendant, on a prior occasion, had told him concerning a prior similar offense. The state was permitted to introduce this testimony to show the identification of the defendant by the complaining witness. The purpose for this line of questioning was that the testimony of this officer was given before the trial, and thus, would be barred as res inter alios acta. On the other hand, the defendant was allowed to testify on his own behalf, regarding a prior offense for which he had been convicted, and that at the time of the offense for which he was being prosecuted, he was under the influence of alcohol. We are of the view that the testimony of the state's witness was properly admissible in that it would corroborate the complaining witness and establish the identification of the defendant by the complaining witness. The state raises the question of the sufficiency of the evidence, under the decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Williams v. State, Fla., 78 So.2d 923, to establish a prima facie case against the defendant

Ask HN: How can I justify paying extra $$ for startup Android device? - sudhend So my girlfriend recently got Nexus 7 and she loves it, I just love android apps. My problem is, I have smartphone (Huawei Ascend P1) which has huge lag so I can't install most of android apps. So I proposed to her that pay for cell phone which will surely have more storage than mobile phone.

The problem is she like Galaxy Note 2 very much (Actually all android smartphones are too big for me). " So there are a lot of user interface of android that I like in Galaxy Note 2".

So what would you tell her? ===== kumarm Go to geekhack.com and ask them. They will ask her question about which phones would be better for her, but this is just hypothetical questions asked after asking her what she likes. Or talk to her friends and ask them what are phones best for new age, older females users. I think people have phones because they like it and really want it for security and privacy reasons so it's smart to leave it to them to decide the brand of phone to buy ----- Casseres There are great apps (and developers) for the smaller devices, but you have to look at the quality in which you expect an
