Rate Topic Sticker Added My post has been viewed 1,547 times Pages Saturday, January 28, 2013 Putting the Stress of Life into Perspective I can't even tell you what sparked this post. But here goes. I've been thinking about blessings lately. Not the literal kind, but rather blessings I've been given in my life. Living in a time of birth, who wouldn't think about blessings. But, I've been thinking about blessings in ways I hadn't before. My Christmas season was filled with blessings. My family, friends, co-workers, and pastors gave me so much more than gifts. They gave me their love and filled my heart with hope and promise. I am so grateful for my wonderful family and friends. You see, one of my favorite things I've been given in my life is perspective. This is a piece I wrote that touches on this topic. It's a topic that I feel I need to keep reminding myself of. "Put it in perspective...It is better to have been loved and lost than never to have been loved at all." About Me I'm not perfect. I get a few things wrong and a few other things right, but I'll let you know when I get something wrong. I'm a wife and Mom, and I have a day job. I am a sinner saved by grace. I love to sing and hope to share this love with others through music. I love to make food for my family. My family loves good food and I love to cook for them and make sure we have a decent dinner everyday. I am a daughter of God and I love him so very much. Because of this, I have a humble and great respect for what he has done in my life. I find joy in "all things" and try to be as appreciative of each day as I can be. But, I also have a pretty goofy side, so I suppose I could be called an optimist with a sprinkle of sarcasm. It's important to me to be honest about my shortcomings and not pretend to be something I'm not. I'm glad you dropped in to join me as I share all that's going on in my life, because I can tell you that life isn't always pretty!P.I.C.S. P.I.C.S. is a privately held independent company based

Structure Deck by Tom Jensen Yu-Gi-Oh! ZEXAL Dark Mist Saga Structure Deck Published: 2008 Yu-Gi-Oh! ZEXAL is an anime and manga series centered around a boy and his friends (hilariously they're almost all younger boys) in search of a boy with a dragon on his back. This boy turns out to be Yuuichi "Yu" Tomaichi Nakamori, who learns to fight using cards in place of swords. It isn't long before Yu finds a second boy, Kaiba, who wanders into his town and the adventures begin. Now although Yu-Gi-Oh! ZEXAL is intended for children, it has a certain amount of adult-oriented content. There is such a thing as "crossover" or "adult" cards, and very often they take the form of "face" cards with bodies that represent monsters. Yu-Gi-Oh! ZEXAL has such cards as "Dark Magician", "Dark Magician Girl" and "Demon with Black Wings". These aren't "struck" cards from the regular set, but they're things that Yu knows how to play and use. In addition, certain cards in the regular set have a special rule for them. For example, Dark Magician can discard one of the Special Summoned monsters on the field, effectively instantly terminating the effect on it. One such card, "Pale Blue Eyes", is revealed to be a "Dark Magician Girl". Reika's appearance in Yu-Gi-Oh! ZEXAL and during the play of the gimmick card is also adapted into an anime character called Reika Tanakadate, who has the Dark Magician Girl on her back. And in the game, Yu is able to wield the "Dark Magician" during battle even though he had no previous knowledge of it, so he learns that it's a monster that can be summoned by Normal Summoning. It has become popular for a certain group of fans to attempt to "translate" the gimmicks in the regular set to cards that they would be familiar with from other Yu-Gi-Oh! Trading Card Games. Several decks have been created, using cards from the ZEXAL games including monsters and effects from the games. All such players play by the same guidelines that are in place for Yu-Gi-Oh! ZEXAL. (Unfortunately, using all zeni cards available in

Most of the world had thought that magic was something that existed only in myths and fairy tales. However, throughout the years, it has come to light that we live in a world with elemental magic. These elemental magic are those that have been described as the source of life. However, there are 5 planes of elemental magic: Earth, Water, Air, Fire, and Life. Life is what connects us all to one another. However, when it came to life magic, it was clear that the world knew little of this magic.
